

How to use Microsoft Word without having the software on your PC.

Sometimes you may find yourself in a situation where you need to edit a document written in Word but the computer you are using does not have the MS-Word software installed.

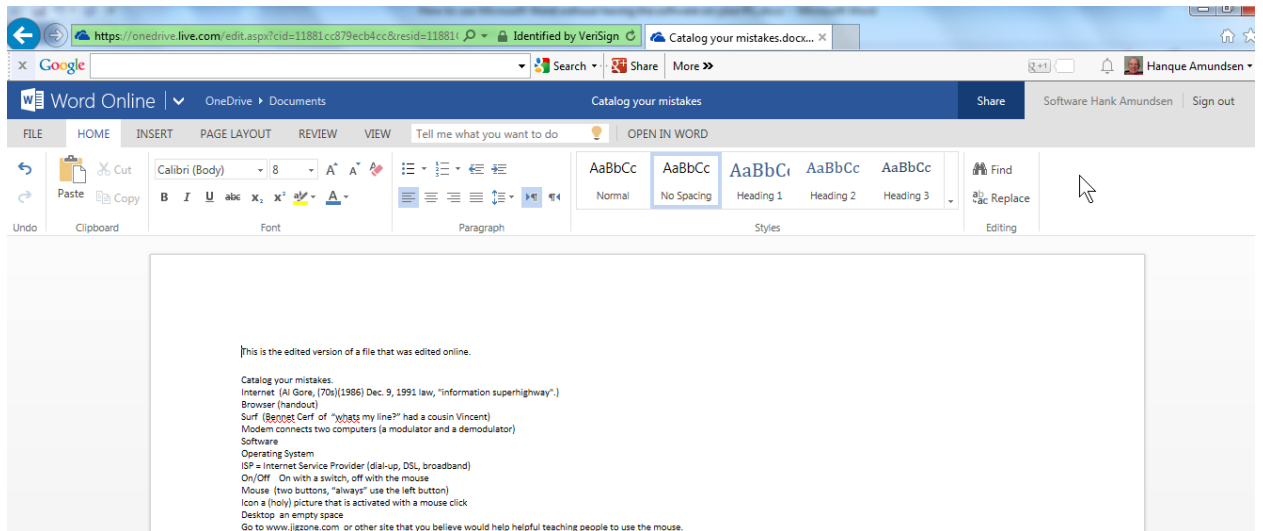

If you try to open the document, you may get an invitation to buy the software or the document may just fail to open.

Here is how to edit the document.

1. E-mail the document to yourself using “Windows Live” or “Hotmail” (It will not work on non-Microsoft e-mail applications like Yahoo or Gmail)
2. Go to the e-mail That you e-mailed to yourself.
3. Click on the document icon where it says “View Online”.

4. The document will open along with a strip across the top. Click on EDIT IN BROWSER.
5. A banner similar to that in MS-Word will appear at the top and your document below.

6. After your edits, download the revised document.
